WIN A THREE-NIGHT BREAK TO CORSICA

National Geographic Traveller (UK) has partnered with Air Corsica to offer a three-night break for two at eco-luxury retreat Hotel Misincu

Flying high

For the first time, Air Corsica will operate flights from the UK to the French island this year, with nine flights a week from London Stansted to Ajaccio, Bastia and Figari. Flights begin on 3 May, starting at less than £50 each way. With a generous 23kg hold baggage allowance, seat allocation, refreshments and an easy booking policy (bookings can be changed for the same type of reservation), there's no easier way to reach this beautiful island. aircorsica.com

Where to stay

Within 70 acres of rugged landscape on the enchanting Cap Corse peninsula stands Hotel Misincu — a 29-bedroom eco-luxury retreat. Two restaurants offer a taste of authentic Corsican fare, while the garden spa's four treatment rooms, and outdoor yoga are perfect for unwinding. Activities include hiking on the surrounding trails or setting out on the hotel's own boat to explore the hidden coves dotted along Cap Corse. hotel-misincu.com

The prize

One winner and a guest will receive return tickets from London Stansted to Bastia with Air Corsica and three nights at the eco-luxury retreat, Hotel Misincu. Staying in a classic room with sea view and breakfast included, guests can set out on the hiking paths that snake around the hotel's grounds, bask in the turquoise waters off Misincu beach, or get active with wakeboarding and glass-bottom kayaking — both included in the stay.
